Khrushchev Sets Economic Race

Aims To Beat U. S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev launched the Soviet Union today on an historic economic offensive he said would win "millions to socialism" and vanquish the forces of war.

The Soviet premier predicted Russia would "catch up with and outstrip" the United States within a dozen years and take over "first place in the world."

Khrushchev was buoyant and jovial as he put forth his tax-free, seven-year plan before a cheering Communist Party congress and said it was aimed at ending the cold war by making Russia supreme over the capitalist world.

With it he put an implied Communist doctrine that neither hot war nor cold war is inevitable in the face of growing Communist economic power, and a plan that will increase Soviet production 80 per cent by 1965.

Calls Plan Decisive

"The seven-year plan is a decisive stage in the economic competition of socialism and capitalism," he said. "This plan will greatly influence the entire international situation and prove a new triumph of Marxism-Leninism."

"Our successes in the fulfillment of the plan will attract to the side of socialism millions of adherents. They will lead to the strengthening of the forces of (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Miami newspapers probably headlining, "Snow falls two days up north."

And it did. But not enough to hurt. Just enough to make driving a bit difficult this morning—especially before the defroster warmed up.

Luckily though there's hardly enough for a sled. ("Luckily" means you're not a youngster anymore.) But taking the snow in small doses this way is the best medicine for getting through the winter.

Another kidnaped baby is returned safe in New York. Parents are extremely lucky. The child was stolen for affection and not for cash but the anguish and terror it causes the parents is just as bad.

One kidnaping seems to give more people the idea. That's why the people doing it must be punished so that others will be deterred.

Khrushchev declares economic war. That's the kind of challenge that will do the world more good than harm.

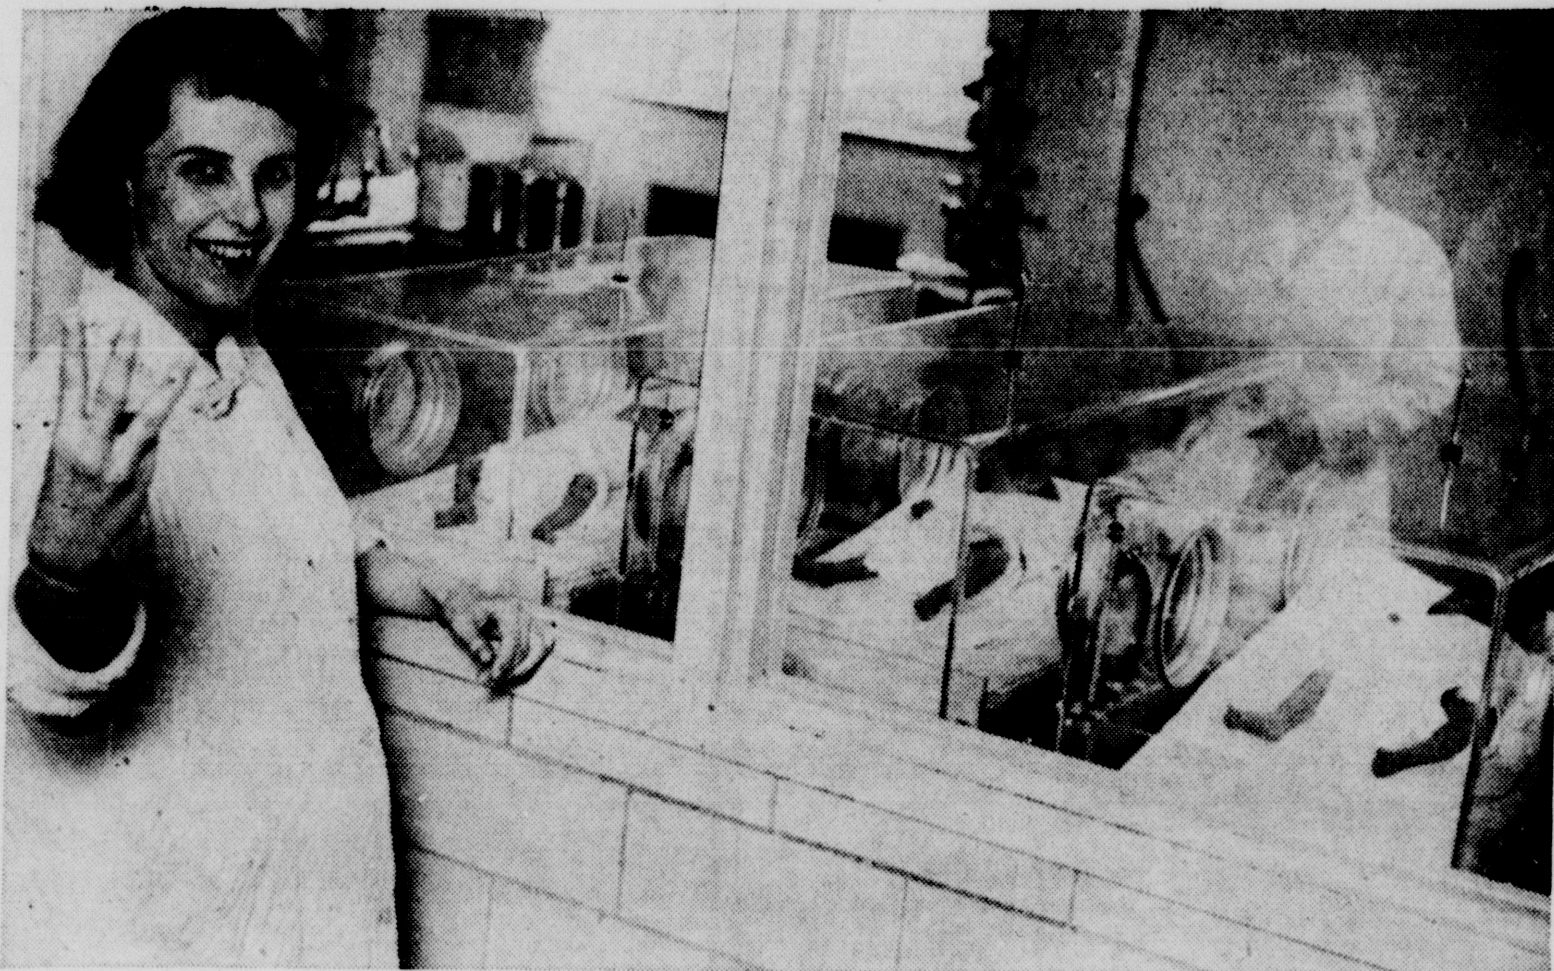

He says he will catch the United States and then pass us. That the Russians can close the gap is plain logic. We have been so far ahead that anything they do is an improvement. To pass us would take a real effort and if we let it happen it would be suicide.

Three Little Maids Are They

"Three, count them," says Mrs. William C. Erwin, 17, of 28 Hedge Road, Levittown, as she shows off the identical triplets she gave birth to Thursday at Abington Memorial Hospital. Not quite ready to pose for the photographer are the triplets resting quietly in their incubators. The three daughters are Denise Ann, Donna Ann and Debby Ann, (maybe and maybe not left to right) or as Mrs. Erwin says, "The Three Ds" (Courier-Times Photo)

Drug Charges Are Denied By Woman, 38

A Morrisville woman charged with obtaining narcotic drugs by fraud on two occasions last September denied the charges yesterday before a Bucks County Criminal Court jury.

Mrs. Elizabeth E. DuBosq, 38, of 320 Clymer Ave., is on trial on two charges of obtaining vials of Demerol, described as a "pain reliever," and a narcotic, ordered from local pharmacists by telephone.

Witnesses for the Commonwealth and for Mrs. DuBosq completed their testimony yesterday afternoon. This morning the attorneys were to sum up their cases, for the jury to consider after being charged by Judge I. Louis Rubin.

Arrested At Home

Mrs. DuBosq was arrested at her home Sept. 30, according to witnesses, when Federal Narcotics Agent Ira Coleman; Borough Patrolman Stanley Naprawa, a pharmacist and a drug delivery man visited her home.

The pharmacists said they prepared the drug in response to a telephone caller who identified herself as Dr. Elizabeth Strathie, an osteopath, of Newtown, Dr. Strathie told the jury she had not made the calls.

Isadore Brosbe, pharmacist and owner of a drug store at 310 Mill St., Bristol, said he was called at home at 7 a.m. Sept. 29 by a caller posing as Dr. Strathie. The caller asked that 30 cc's of Demerol be prepared for a Walter Bier and delivered to 118 W. Bridge St., for some one to pick up, according to Brosbe. A prescription was to follow.

Telephone Order

Brosbe said he went to the address and found a paint store there. Outside the store, he said was Mrs. DuBosq, who accepted the drug.

George C. Harbison, a pharmacist who was employed by Del Val Drugs, Levittown, said he got a telephone order for Demerol the night of Sept. 24, by a caller posing as Dr. Strathie. He said he prepared the drug.

Mother Of 3 Is Arrested In Kidnaping

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-eight-day-old Johnny Tavaroz, kidnaped nearly five days ago, was found alive today suffering from a respiratory infection. A 25-year-old mother of three was held as his abductor.

The boy was admitted to Roosevelt Hospital for treatment of bronchitis. He was reported in satisfactory condition and was expected to remain in the hospital about a week.

Police said Mrs. Asuncion Ortiz, who fooled her husband and other relatives into believing Johnny was her own child, would be charged with kidnaping. The maximum penalty is 20 years to life.

"That's Johnny! That's my baby," shouted Mrs. Doraliza Tavaroz, 31, when she saw the boy sleeping in the arms of a detective. She had to be restrained from attacking the weeping Mrs. Ortiz.

Second In City

It was the second kidnaping of an infant in New York within three weeks. On Jan. 2 Lisa Rose Chionchio, two and one-half hours old, was kidnaped from St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn. The infant was found unharmed nine days later in the home of Mrs. Jean Iavarone, 43, a mother of eight children. Mrs. Iavarone was indicted for kidnaping and assault and was admitted to Kings County Hospital for psychiatric examination.

A telephoned tip to police cracked the Lisa Rose kidnaping case. The Johnny Tavaroz case was solved with a tip from the Spanish-language newspaper El Diario.

Mrs. Ortiz claimed she took Johnny "because I lost my own baby." She told police she became pregnant last May but lost her baby during the past 10 days by miscarriage.

A police officer gave this explanation: "It's simple. She was in love with her husband and she wanted to give him a baby."

Fools Husband

Mrs. Ortiz, a short, heavy-set woman, said she fooled her husband, her in-laws, and her own relatives by telling them the baby was delivered by police while she was alone in her apartment. A police spokesman said her husband, Angel Ortiz, believed her story and never suspected that (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Bristol Approves 40 Pct. Water Hike

A 40 percent across-the-board water rate increase that will earn the Bristol Water Department $90,000 a year was approved last night at a special meeting of Bristol Borough Council.

The rate increase, the first in the 45-year history of the borough water department, was approved after an hour-long executive council session behind closed doors.

But even with the 40 per cent boost, the borough's water rate will still be considerably lower than most other water departments in the Lower Bucks area. The rate increase will mean that the $16 a year water rate paid by the average residential consumer will be increased to about $22.40.

Major To Die Despite False Identification

HAVANA (UPI)—Maj. Pedro Morejon Valdes, second "war criminal" to face revolutionary retribution here, was sentenced today to death by firing squad at a trial lasting more than 10 hours.

Morejon was whisked away in a blue sedan to a death-row cell in Havana's grim Cabana fortress prison. He had 24 hours to file an appeal.

A crowd outside the courthouse pressed closely around the car as Morejon was escorted into it, jeering and cat-calling but making no attempt to molest him.

It was reported earlier that revolutionary authorities plan to set up two special tribunals to try 70 air force pilots accused of bombing rebel-held Cuban cities.

Outside Havana, four officers were sentenced to death and one to 20 years' imprisonment by a revolutionary court - martial in Santa Clara Province.

Morejon was convicted by a three-man revolutionary tribunal of assassination, theft and other crimes. Approximately a third of the 55 witnesses called to testify against him offered first-hand testimony about his alleged crimes and identified him as their perpetrator.

Revolutionary leader Fidel Castro returned to Havana this morning from a four-day goodwill visit to Venezuela. His departure was marred by a tragic accident at the Caracas airport in which one of his party was killed.

Dimes Drive Slated Tonight

Tonight's the night to leave your porchlight on to greet March of Dimes drive collectors.

The annual porchlight drive will be carried out in Lower Bucks County communities from 7 to 8 o'clock.

However, March of Dimes drive captains report that because of the bad weather, many of the younger volunteer collectors will begin their house to house visits as early as 6 p.m.

In Bristol Borough, the start of the drive will be noted at 7 o'clock when the borough test fire alarm will be sounded for two minutes instead of one.

Moon Rocket Shot Planned By Army

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Army plans to fire its second moon rocket Feb. 28 in another attempt to send a 13-pound payload skimming past the moon like Russia's Lunik, it was learned today.

But officials are concerned over the possibility that the public will overlook the scientific importance of the space probe and notice only that its payload is just a fraction of the size of the 3,245-pound Lunik.

'Shouldn't Have Loved Him So Much'

Mother Weeps As Fire Victim Is Buried

By MAURY ALLEN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Joey was laid to rest today.

After simple Methodist services, the casket bearing the body of Joseph McHenry, 16, of 215 Guilford Road, Fairless Hills, who died in a fire at his home Thursday, was placed in the snow covered earth at Forests Hill Cemetery, Somerset.

In a friend's home at 168 Andover Road, Fairless Hills, Mrs. Joseph Groch, mother of the youth, choked out the words last night as she waited for the services at the Beck-Dougherty Mortuary.

"My Favorite"

"I shouldn't have loved someone so much. He was my favorite. My only boy. God needed him. I hope He is happy with him"

Mrs. Groch buried her face in a handkerchief. She tried to clear her throat. It was difficult. It has been like that since Thursday.

"He was just a good kid. He was mommie's boy. We loved him too much. That's why God took him. That's why . . ."

The sobs were throaty. The sounds broke the stillness of the living room. Mrs. Groch gasped for air.

"He had great plans. He and Betty. They were only kids but she was his only girl. They even donated the cemetery ground. He is being buried on Betty's family ground . . ."

The small woman bent over and closed her eyes. Her fingers trembled as she dabbed at her face with the handkerchief.

"He loved to wrestle and practice body building. He draws beautiful things. And he plays the guitar and sings a lot. He's a very happy boy. And now he's gone. My baby. And he's gone . . ."

She took a deep breath. Her eyes were red and tired. She probably hadn't known a minute's sleep since Thursday.

People Wonderful

"People have been wonderful. Mr. Jackson and Rev. Pike. They gave us money and a house full of things. I can't face that house. I can't look at the utility room. I'm frightened . . ."

"But I want the paper to thank everybody for me. Everyone has been so nice. All the food and the clothes and the furniture. There are no words to describe it. I'll have to spend the rest of my life thanking people."

"But I'll trade it all for my Joey . . ." Her voice broke.

"I have to go now. The services . . . But tell everybody, we will build our house right back on that burned-out spot. That's Joey's home and we are going right back there. He loved that house."

"And I loved him too much . . ."

A freezing rain fell on Forest Hills Cemetery as Joey was laid to rest today.

Roads To Ice Tonight

Snow flurries that could accumulate up to two inches is likely to make Lower Bucks County highways deadly treacherous tonight, according to U.S. Weather Bureau officials at Trenton.

Three area schools were closed today by last night's one inch snowfall, but a combination of road crews, heavy traffic and temperatures of about 30 degrees made driving reasonably easy today.

However, Weather Bureau officials say the slush now covering Lower Bucks highways is likely to turn to ice when temperatures drop to an estimated 20 to 25 degrees tonight.

But the Weather Bureau insists there is no danger of a major snow storm.

A quick wind shift last night dropped 1.1 inches of snow on the area which changed to freezing rain early this morning. The snow was the heaviest storm of the still young winter season.

A low pressure system, carrying more snow and a high pressure mass carrying fair but cold weather are racing for Lower Bucks. If the high gets here first, the weatherman said, the weather will clear tomorrow and stay fair for a couple of days.

If the low wins the race, more snow can fall in Lower Bucks. And what could be worse is a tie, with the resultant turbulence in the weather meaning possibly more snow, rain and cold.

Most area road crews were out early last night as the snow began falling about 9 p.m. No serious accidents were reported in Lower Bucks.

St. Ann's in Bristol, Emilie Methodist Church School and the Levittown Nursery and Kindergarten School were all closed. All other schools opened with many being late because of the slow highway conditions.

Today's snow was more difficult to handle because it was accompanied by rain and colder temperatures. Yesterday's fall of .3 of an inch was gone by late afternoon.

The weatherman expects this fall to coat the highways most of today and tonight and disappear under sunny skies tomorrow.

Oscar Booz, Bucks County State Superintendent of Highways, said road crews were out from 9:30 p.m. last night. More than 70 county trucks and 150 men were on the job. Another 60 men were working on the roads through private contractors hired for snow removal by the county.

The State Police reported the Delaware River Bridge was "juicy" this morning with the salt causing the snow to melt and become soft.

A speed limit of 35 miles an hour was imposed on the Turnpike this morning but normal speed was expected to be resumed about noon.

Neighboring New Jersey also sported a blanket of snow with an inch falling on the Garden State. A freezing drizzle covered (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5) peace and the weakening of the forces of war.

"A decisive change in favor of socialism will take place in the domain of economy in the world arena."

As a token of the Communist system's rising strength, he said, the direct taxes on the people will be abolished in the "near future."

The immense scope of the plan—higher industrial production, higher agricultural output, higher wages for all—indicated the Soviet leadership is banking heavily on uninterrupted peace through 1965.

Russia's national income will rise 62 to 65 per cent over last year at the end of the seven-year period, Khrushchev said. It will be almost six times higher than 1940, he said.

And in doing this, he said, taxes will be done away with by 1965. Direct taxes on wage earners now contribute 7.8 per cent of the national revenue under the Communist system.

This meant government operations including defense and social benefits would be financed entirely by kickbacks from the nationalized industries.

Dulles Sees Parley Timely

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today it would be timely to have a Big Four foreign ministers conference sometime this spring on European and German problems, including Berlin.

At the same time, Dulles warned that Russia is trying hard to delude the United States into thinking it wants to end the cold war. Actually, he said, the Soviet is seeking military and political advantages.

As for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting, he told his news conference, there is always a possibility of persuading the Communists into making agreements which do not give undue advantages or disadvantages to either side.

Dulles cited the Korean armistice, the Austrian peace treaty and last year's Soviet-American agreements on cultural exchanges as evidences of worthwhile agreements that have been reached between the East and West.

$15,000 In Jewelry Stolen At Power Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Furs and jewelry, valued at $15,000, were stolen from the home of the late actor Tyrone Power yesterday shortly before his widow came home from a hospital with her newborn son, police said.

Officers said the burglars were professionals who worked with such efficiency that the crime was not immediately noticed by the maid. They took a mink coat, mink stole, Mrs. Power's jewelry box, Power's jewelry box and papers belonging to the actor.

Mrs. Power gave birth to a son last Thursday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Kidnaped Infant Safe

Harvey Foster, FBI agent in charge of the New York office, beams as he presents kidnaped infant Johnny Travarez to the press today.

Mother Of Three Held In Kidnaping

Johnny was the kidnaped Tavaréz child.

Johnny was identified positively by his parents, Doralisa Tavaréz, 31, and her husband, Jose, 30. The baby's footprints proved to be identical with those taken at Metropolitan Hospital when he was born.

Chief of Detectives James Leggett said Mrs. Ortiz would be charged with kidnaping but no charges would be lodged against her husband "because we have no reason to suspect him."

Uses Assumed Name

The arrest of Mrs. Ortiz and the recovery of Johnny shortly after midnight ended a city-wide search for "Mrs. Gladys Garcia," the name Mrs. Ortiz had used in gaining Mrs. Tavaréz's confidence.

The Ortizes have three children, Henry, 9, Sandra, 7, and Edwin, 6. Police said the children believed Johnny was their new brother.

Police said Mrs. Ortiz related how she met Mrs. Tavaréz at Metropolitan Hospital and took little Johnny after directing the unsuspecting mother to a fictitious address in search of an apartment.

50 Stores Schedule Dollar Day Sales

All 50 member stores of the Levittown Businessmen's Association have coordinated their buying, merchandising, publicity and advertising efforts for Dollar Day And Dollar Day Companion Sale which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Levittown-Shop-A-Rama.

A committee of three top executives from the Levittown Businessmen's Association, under the chairmanship of Donald Seibert, manager of J. C. Penney Co., assisted by Harold Zimmerman of Pomeroy's and Mort Scharf of this most "time-honored" sale Yard's, have been working on event in American retail history, for the past 26 weeks.

"It was only a few years ago when I entered this business back in Bradford, Pa., that Dollar Day was the easiest of all sales events to organize," said Seibert. "In those days, if memory serves, it seems that almost everything was around a dollar, but today, it is a much different story. We started working on this event approximately 26 weeks ago. The buyers, whose numbers are legion in the Shop-A-Rama, have been earmarking, making special purchases and putting aside stock for just this event, and it has been most rewarding."

"We feel that although Dollar Day has become a most difficult type of promotion, we will promote it in a way to do justice to this traditional event. Just about everyone of our 50 members will be in our TAB which will be represented with startling Dollar specials in the Shop-A-Rama news which will be published as part of the Bristol Courier-Levittown Times on Wednesday."

The Shop-A-Rama will be open Thursday and Friday nights until 9 p.m., and Saturday until 5:30 p.m.

Police Screen Jazz Spots For Slayers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police screened Broadway's garish jazz hangouts today for the couple that knifed to death the assistant manager of Birdland and stopped at the checkroom for their coats on the way out.

The slain man, Zachariah (Irving) Levy, 36, will be buried today at Paramus, N.J. Police were working on the theory that his slaying was a case of vengeance and mistaken identity by assailants who were "hopped up" on narcotics.

Levy tangled with a burly, sandy-haired man in his early 40's and a younger pony-tailed, red-haired companion near a service bar in the famous jazz joint at 52nd St. and Broadway early Monday morning.

While Urbie Green's band wailed "I'm Through With Love," a six-inch knife flashed, bar glasses were broken, women screamed and Levy sprawled on the floor, dead. A single thrust had penetrated near his heart.

Police said the couple could have been seeking vengeance because they had been thrown out of Birdland on previous occasions. There have been many fights reported on the premises.

Flood Areas Begin Return To Production

United Press International
Industries in flood-ravaged communities of Western Pennsylvania began a gradual return to production today, but snow and freezing rain closed all schools in the Philadelphia area.

In Eastern Pennsylvania, motorists ran into their second consecutive day of hazardous driving in the wake of a light snow last night that turned to freezing rain by morning.

School authorities at Philadelphia announced that all public and parochial schools had suspended classes for the day because of the icy conditions. Dozens of suburban schools followed suit.

The latest onslaught of wintry weather accounted for at least one new weather death in the state. Alex Heinzman, 26, was killed last night when his automobile and a light delivery truck collided on a slippery street in Philadelphia's northeast section. Three others were hurt.

In Harrisburg, the Legislature scrapped plans for a six-weeks recess in order to be on hand for any emergency measures developing from the flood situation. In less than a three-hour period Monday, the lawmakers approved a "resolution of intent" providing an immediate 3 million dollars in flood relief.

Meanwhile at Sharon, officials of the Roemer works of Sharon Steel Co. hoped to have blast furnaces and five rolling mills back in operation within two days. Seven open hearth furnaces were re-fired yesterday.

Other industrial plants returning to production after being closed by high waters were the Shenango Furnace Co. at Sharpsville, the Wheatland Tube Co. at Wheatland, and the Sharon works of National Malleable Steel Castings Co.

Red Cross workers at Meadville, probably the most severely hit city in the state, switched their headquarters from emergency stations to the courthouse.

Of the 4,000 persons evacuated from 1,350 homes in the Meadville area, only a handful were able to return to begin the massive cleanup job. James Williams, Red Cross field representative, estimated that only 10 per cent of the evacuated homes have had gas service restored.

lor of the plane in which Castro was flying back to Cuba.

Morejon, dressed in blue prison garb, sat between two similar-clad men of approximately the same build and height at his trial. Some of the witnesses were unable to pick him out.

The defense argued also that there may have been confusion between the accused and two other Pedro Morejons in the army—one a major, the other a lieutenant. The defendant did not always use the "Valdes"—his mother's family name—which distinguishes him from the other Morejons.

The crime most often mentioned in the testimony against Morejon was the killing of 13 farmhands, one of them a 6-year-old boy.

An unexpected sensation was provided for the spectators when Reina Cespedes, a girl from Oriente Province brought here to testify against Morejon, identified a spectator as having been one of his men.

Miss Cespedes said Sgt. Adolfo Perez, now assigned to the judge advocate general's office of the revolutionary army, bashed her brother's brains out with a rock after knocking him down.

Paris Dressmakers Show Trend Is To Slim Line

By PAT HERMAN
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—Paris dressmakers are admitting that "there is nothing like a dame."

This, in essence, is what they've disclosed to the world press so far as the showing of their summer dress collections goes into the second day.

And it's a better than even guess that designers Pierre Balmain, Michel Goma and Nina Ricci, who parade their models on the runway today will not buck the trend or turn back the clock to flat chested, baggy waistline makers. Of this the dressmakers, press, buyers and customers obviously have had enough.

The world fashion merry-go-round never is going full swing until the powerful House of Dior shows its wares. And that does not happen until Thursday.

But when designers as different as Jacques Heim, Jean Patou and Pierre Cardin all hit on essentially the same thing, it looks like the beginning of a trend.

Heim calls the silhouette a "rose" line and Cardin a "hoop." Patou shuns labels. But any way you wear the new line it is slim, giving shape to the most precious attributes a lady owns: Bust, waist and hips.

Happily, skirts disguise the knee cap. And you won't have to worry about keeping stocking seams straight at night because many of the smartest dinner gowns are ankle length.

Cardin topped his models with large rounded "hoop" collars. Patou used collarless necklines and décolletés and Heim emphasizes rounded shoulders. But the silhouette was essentially a princess line with slightly different emphasis on the area above the bust.

Township Crews Cinder In Levittown

highways with a dangerous coating of ice and slush.

The New Jersey Turnpike lowered its speed limit from 60 to 35 miles an hour from interchanges 1 to 8, a slippery area extending from Deepwater to Hightstown. The 60-mile limit remained in force on the rest of the pike.

Roads in the Morrisville area are slushy according to Robert Steward, borough secretary.

Steward added that workmen, starting at 11:30 last night and working until 2 a.m., spread about 70 bags of salt on area highways and roads.

Chief Frank Morgan of the Yardley police reported that most of the Yardley proper streets have been sanded but condition on the state highways are dangerously slippery.

Schools in the Morrisville and Yardley areas are open today it was reported.

Bristol Borough roads were reported this morning as treacherous but passable. Except for a minor two-car accident on Radcliffe St., near Penn St., Bristol, about 8 o'clock this morning, Bristol police reported no difficulties.

Middletown Township roads are coated with snow and ice, but police said there was only one accident last night.

Cinders had been spread at most dangerous intersections and hills in Bristol Borough and Middletown Township.

Falls Township Roadmaster Clifford Watson reported that the township highways were slippery but being sanded. The crews began 10 o'clock last night and were still out this morning. The township has three trucks on the job.

Chief Franklin Kirby, Falls Township Police, reported only one snow-connected accident. A Brooklyn, N. Y. man, Laureno Reyes, 135 Rutledge St., lost control of his car on the ice and skidded into a guard rail on Route 1 near Oxford Valley Road. Patrolmen William Meyer and Edmund Brown reported he was not hurt.

Bristol Township had seven three-man cinder crews working through the night. William McCool, road superintendent, reported the streets were in good condition by this morning.

"We had our men out at 10 o'clock last night and kept them at it," he said. He said that most of the intersections were cindered plus all the main roads and most of the main residential streets.

The crews made no attempt to get into the side residential streets or Levittown lanes unless they were on a steep hill. "We could not take care all of them, but we did hit the drives in Levittown," he said.

An 18-year-old Croydon youth was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital for examination following a three-car crash on Route 413 near the Burlington - Bristol Bridge shortly after 9 a.m. today.

The youth was William McNutt, of 953 Dixon Ave., Croydon. He was driving one of the three cars involved in the crash. The Bucks County Rescue Squad transported him to the hospital where he was detained for x-rays. The other two drivers apparently were not injured.

Classes Start Late

All schools in the Neshaminy Joint District were open today with classes beginning one hour later.

Centennial District Schools also opened one hour later than the regular hour.

Schools in the Council Rock District opened at the regular hour as did the Richboro Elementary School.

Newtown roads were also reported in fair condition by Police Chief Edward Bateman. Chief Bateman said that if motorists drive carefully they should have no difficulty.

Groch Home Is Furnished

More than $235 in cash and a completely furnished house has been collected for the Joseph Groch family, parents of the 16-year-old victim of a Fairless Hills fire.

The home at 413 Austin Drive, Fairless Hills, has been completely outfitted with furniture and utensils. Much of the furniture is new and all is in fine condition, Walter Jackson, Fairless Hills attorney, announced.

Jackson and Rev. Robert C. Pike of the Fairless Hills Methodist Church are handling the fund.

"Donations can still be sent to my office for the family at the Fairless Hills Shopping Center," Jackson said.

He said no more furniture is needed.

The victim of the fire, Joseph McHenry, was buried today.

Councilman, Minister Oppose Police Cuts

Can't Afford Cut In Force, Says Lane

By ANTHONY PATTERSON
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Councilman Lawrence Lane, in a statement yesterday, said that he is definitely backing Mayor Harry Simpson, in his stand on maintaining the present police force in Morrisville.

"We cannot afford to cut the force and I certainly don't feel that the Morrisville Police Department should be considered a money making instrument," he added.

Lane stated that the crime rate to date in Morrisville has been pretty low. "But cutting the force, he asked 'How can we give the people in the borough anymore adequate protection than what we have already?'"

He mentioned that at the recently held meeting of the police Committee, where Councilman John V. Sawyer first made the proposal to cut the force by three men, "I was definitely against it at the time."

"I think we'd be making a big mistake by decreasing the complement of men on the Morrisville police force because we would not be giving the people the protection they deserve," he commented.

Death Penalty End Is Asked

TRENTON (UPI)—Bills to abolish the death penalty in New Jersey were re-introduced in the assembly last night.

Similar bills were bottled in Assembly committee last year.

Top State Prison and parole officials, as well as some national correctional officers, testified in favor of abolishment of the death penalty during public hearings last year.

However, it aroused little sentiment for the bill among the legislators.

Hugo A. Bedau, a philosophy instructor at Princeton University and secretary to a state committee for the abolishment of capital punishment, said today he hoped the bills would be saved from "death in committee" this year.

'Polite' Juveniles Nabbed By Police

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Authorities have ended the robbing activities of three polite juveniles who kept a diary of their misdeeds.

Juvenile authorities said Monday the youngsters, two 13-year-old boys and a 15-year-old, kept a diary in which they accounted for 22 robberies already committed, and 60 more pilfer jobs they had lined up for the future—all business establishments.

They are not without manners, police said. After robbing the Universal Car Loading Co., they didn't forget to leave a note which read, "Thank you."

Adenauer Will Fly To London For Talks

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will fly to London for informal talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, it was announced Monday. No definite date was set for the meeting.

Adenauer had planned to visit Macmillan last December. But he caught a cold and was forced to postpone the trip.

DV Rescue Squad To Elect Tomorrow

Election of officers will take place at a meeting of the Delaware Valley Rescue Squad at 8 p.m. tomorrow at 567 Rosemar Drive, Grandview Estates, Rob-nounced today.

There will also be a discussion on the furnishing of the new squad headquarters to be located in the old fire house in Fallsington, Main St., he added.

Houghton also announced that the squad recently purchased a second hand rescue truck valued at $1,300, formerly owned by the Florence, N.J. fire company.

The squad is presently conducting a paper drive each week. This week the members will collect on Saturday in the Morrisville area. The drive is under the direction of Earl Saunders.

Proceeds from the paper drive will be used to purchase equipment for the rescue truck.

Curtin Gets Committee Appointment

Assignment of Rep. Willard S. Curtin of the 8th (Bucks-Lehigh) District to the House Administration Committee—the "house-keeping" committee of the U. S. House of Representatives—was announced in Washington.

As its names implies, this committee supervises the employment of persons by the House, assignment of office space, appropriations and expenditures charged to the House operating fund, matters relating to the printing of the Congressional Record, measures relating to the election of the President, Vice President or Members of Congress; corrupt practices; contested elections; and Federal elections generally.

Other duties of the Committee call for examining all bills, amendments and joint resolutions after passage by the House; matters relating to the Smithsonian Institute, the Library of Congress, and the Botanic Gardens; purchase of books and manuscripts; and erection of monuments to the memory of individuals.

Rep. Curtin also retains membership on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, which deals with such matters as the nation's Merchant Marine fleet, the Panama Canal, conservation of wild life, and a wide range of other duties. He has served on this committee the past two years.

Rev. Pollock Cites Boro's Crime Record

By ANTHONY PATTERSON
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Rev. Clifford G. Pollock of the First Presbyterian Church, Morrisville, said today the Morrisville police cut could be a political move to recoup on earlier mistakes.

Rev. Pollock began by stating that, "A Certain Morrisville Borough Councilman has proposed sizeable budgetary cuts for 1959, which if adopted would reduce the borough police force by one third its present number."

He added that he was very much opposed to any reduction of men or money in the law enforcement branch of the community.

"I believe in keeping taxes down and in practicing economy, but this is not the department in which to do it," he said.

Rev. Pollock also stated that, "the nine men now serving are doing a good job and are definitely needed."

He mentioned that the community has a safety and non-crime record of which it can be proud. "Let's keep it that way," he declared.

"In a day when crime and delinquency are on the rise nationally, we dare not cut back and invite such practices in Morrisville," he stated.

Rev. Pollock summed up by stating that, "I urge council not to make such a move as proposed. Let's keep the present full force and continue to be proud of their work and of our community."

Dr. Boehm To Give Talk Tomorrow Night

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, State Supervisor of Public Instruction, State of Pennsylvania, will speak tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Boehm Building, Big Oak Road, Lower Makefield Township.

His subject will be "Implication of Federal Aid to Local Schools." The Pennsylvania Jr.-Sr. High School PTA has extended a welcome to the general public.

The National Defense Act of 1959 Educational Bill will aid many students to college who would not otherwise attend. Pennsylvania was the first state to apply for accreditation for educational funds from this act. Although emphasis of Act is on science, mathematics, foreign language instruction, guidance and testing, help is not limited to these major fields. Any qualified student who is accepted at an approved college can borrow $1,000 per year up to a total of $5,000 at 3 per cent. Interest payable in ten years after graduation. Teachers are required to repay only one half of their loan.

A meeting of the Leadership Training School of the First Presbyterian Church, Morrisville, will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Educational Building of the church.

Courses for the evening include: "Review and Application of the Lesson" and "The Final Test."

Discussion leaders for the school include: Janet Knox, nursery through grade three; Howard Houser, grade four through grade six; and the Rev. Donald R. Zoller, grade seven through grade 12.

Tool Storage Shack Burns

Yardley firemen last night extinguished a small shack fire on Morgan Ave., Yardley at 8:45, according to a police report today.

Firemen believe the blaze started when a kerosene stove was left burning. Irving Smith of Yardley is the owner of the building.

Smith's losses according to a police report totaled $1,000. The shack was a storage place for tools and equipment used by Smith.

The Yardley Fire Company answered the call under the direction of Chief John Ziaylek. Chief Ziaylek also reported that the company answered a fire call at a house on the Newtown-Yardley Road.

Smoke from an oil burner had filled the unoccupied house. The house was recently purchased and the owners of the home were not known at this time.

The firemen disconnected an electrical lead to the stove on arrival.

Completion Of Scudders Falls Bridge Set For Spring Of '60

A spokesman for the Delaware River Bridge Commission at a recent meeting announced that the new $6,400,000 Scudders Falls Bridge, now being built, is scheduled for completion by March or April of 1960. The announcement was made by Chief Engineer Edwin W. Denzler, Jr.

Denzler also stated that at present the substructure of the span is already 52 per cent complete and should be finished by June.

Island Is Problem
Members of the commission are, however, in the midst of a problem concerning the 60-acre Whytes Island which is situated directly under the span.

Contractor for the project, the Conduit and Foundation Corporation of Philadelphia, wishes to use the island as a source of fill dirt to reinforce the bridge embankments. The contractor desires to have the island condemned.

Part of the island has already been condemned for pier locations by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. The island is located on the Pennsylvania side of the river.

Speeds Water Flow
Presently the New Jersey State Water Policy Commission wants the entire island removed from the river to speed the flow of water.

Denzler has been requested to ask the highway agency to condemn the island.

Civic Group Gives Book To Library
Members of the Fairfield Terrace Civic Association at a recent meeting announced that a book had been donated to the Yardley Library in memory of F. Welde, of Yardley.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Lappin, Stackhouse Drive, Yardley.

Also at the meeting the members were briefed on the recent meeting of the Lower Makefield Supervisors.

The group meets every third month.

Boosters Banquet Stated Tomorrow
The annual banquet of the Morrisville High School band, majorettes and color guard will be held at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in the George K. Ryan Hall of the Methodist Church.

The Band Boosters Association of Morrisville is sponsoring the affair.

The program includes a full length film, "Anchors Aweigh."
